

TSL acquires Celtic Audio

TSL has acquired Celtic Audio Ltd., a UK company that specialises in the development of professional audio technology enabling the flexible and accurate monitoring of sound. The acquisition is effective immediately. Terms of the deal, however, were not disclosed.

Speaking about the acquisition, TSL Managing Director David Phillips said: "For many years, Celtic Audio has worked closely with our Professional Products Group to assist with the design and manufacture of our range of audio monitoring products. The full acquisition of Celtic Audio now consolidates all of the engineering and design expertise under one company, Television Systems Limited."

David Lyon, a director of Celtic Audio, will act as a design consultant to TSL; fellow Celtic Audio Director John Watkinson will concentrate on his many other activities; and Managing Director David Lambert will probably retire after 52 years in the industry once the acquisition handover is complete.

Lambert expressed that the company was "pleased that Celtic has now been formally absorbed into TSL."

TSL operates two separate businesses, an international, independent broadcast Systems Integrator and a Professional Products Group that designs, manufactures and sells a range of award-winning audio monitoring, tally signalling and power management units.