

TSL acquires Celtic Audio

TSL has acquired Celtic Audio Ltd, a UK company that specialises in the development of professional audio technology enabling the flexible and accurate monitoring of sound. Quality control of sound in today's multichannel environment is crucial, where any fault or error must be detected and resolved in order to maintain the excellence of the output.

TSL's managing director, David Phillips, said: "For many years Celtic Audio has worked closely with our professional products group to assist with the design and manufacture of our range of audio monitoring products. The full acquisition of Celtic Audio now consolidates all of the engineering and design expertise under one company, Television Systems Limited."

David Lyon, a director of Celtic Audio, will act as a design consultant to TSL, while fellow Celtic Audio director, John Watkinson, will concentrate on his many other activities. Managing director David Lambert will probably retire after 52 years in the industry once the acquisition handover is complete. All three are well-known, highly respected industry experts, with Watkinson having written numerous books including The Art of Digital Audio, which has long been the standard reference work in the industry.

David Lambert said: "We have very much enjoyed working with TSL on a variety of audio technology projects - our award winning designs have contributed to their achievements as they expand their professional audio technology range. We are pleased that Celtic has now been formally absorbed into TSL and we wish the company the best as it continues to market high quality, innovative audio monitoring products to the broadcast market."